“The world is divided amongst those who like to watch the sunset, and those who don’t”

Call it what you want.... By M. Grey

Thing-a-ma-jigs, Doo-hikies, Watcha-ma-call-its, etc. What have we done to the English language? As we go through our day to day lives, we tend to cut corners with everything just like the words above.

But isn't it great that we can use these words and know that pretty much everyone understands what they mean.

The screen printing industry is very similar to this easy way of talking. What other type of business is so forgiving at times that you can throw out all of the conventional rules and still produce a sell-able garment.

As I visit print shops in different areas and of different types, it is amazing to see some of the methods that are being used to ultimately get the same results.

Don't get me wrong. There are plenty of companies that do everything by the book. Shops that are so clean and organized, you think they were almost military. Some of these had started in the garage and have become the biggest in our industry.

With that said, I am still in awe of the shops that seem to get the job done by any means possible. I think that is why I love screen printing so much. It is one of the most versatile types of businesses to be in.

So hats off to everyone for being so creative and re-inventing the process. As for me, I have been teaching and showing the how to's for many years. Everyday I learn something new. A different way or technique.

I am off now to look for the “Dealy-bob” so I can get my next project done. Bye for now....

Know when to fold 'em...

Just so you know, this has nothing to do with poker or what you do with clothes after they come out of the laundry. What I am referring to is after print, tee shirt folding.

Now I used to be pretty good at folding a tee shirt or two in my day, but I never could fold 2 shirts alike. Guess it was not my calling.

Anyway, when it comes to precise and consistent folding. Nothing beats an M&R automatic folding machine.

You can set the controls for speed, size, area of fold, etc. They also can come with options like bagging, tagging and stickers/labels and more. The units can be set up right near the drying ovens to fold right off the belt or in a finishing area.

M&R/Amscomatic produces some of the best folding machines in the industry. There are 3 models to choose from and each comes with a one year warranty.

Call us today to find out more.

Tech Tip: To speed set up times, it helps to re-adjust your press settings from time to time. Make sure off contact is consistent, squeegee pressure, angles, and speed are put back to a neutral mode. Put the micro adjustments back to the center positions. All of this along with a pre-registration system, will allow the most efficient and consistent set up times. Time is money!
